WEAKNESS CONTINUES

After dropping below $9 late in the day, April stuttered back to close at $9.024, a drop of 39 cents on the day. Crude also closed lower along with the Dow, Nasdaq and S&P. All in all it was a red day. Fundamentals and technicals have stepped aside as the financial markets continue to influence the commodities.

Storage expectations are for a draw between 80 and 90 Bcf. Last year's report showed a 17 Bcf injection and the 11 year average is a 62 Bcf withdrawal.

As March continues to be colder than normal, end of winter storage estimates are 1200 -1275 Bcf. While this is much lower than last year's end of winter inventory, it falls right in line with the long term average of 1208 Bcf.
